

School of Electronics and Communication conducts Two Day Workshop on VHDL and FPGA Hands on Training

GY CORRESPONDENT JAMMU, MAY 9

The School of Electronics and Communication (ECE) at Shri Mata Vaishno Devi University recently organized a well-received two-day workshop on VHDL and FPGA Hands on training. This industry-focused program aimed to equip students with practical knowledge and skills in a field with growing demand. The Workshop, held over a weekend, attracted a total of 30 students from across various engineering departments. Led by industry expert Mr. Kumar Divya, Application Engineer-ASIC/FPGA at CoreEL Technologies, the sessions covered a comprehensive range of topics. Students delved into the world of FPGAs, exploring diverse families, ZYNQ and ZYNQ MPSoC architecture, and the design flow using

Vivado. The workshop also covered PYNQ Python Productivity and delved into the integration of custom IPs with Vivado. Embedded System Design using Vitis rounded out the program, providing students with a holistic understanding of FPGAs in the embedded systems domain. These interactive sessions, facilitated by Mr. Divya, fostered a rich learning environment. Students gained valuable insights into the latest trends and applications of FPGAs, while discussions and clarification of doubts ensured a deep understanding of the material. The organizers expressed gratitude to Dr. Anil Bhardwaj, HoD ECE, for this initiative in organizing this successful workshop. Dr. Vikram Singh for his valuable insights and guidance throughout the sessions and to Mr. Gaurav

Kumar for providing technical and lab support. Tarang coordinators Sonu, Yashwant, and Sonu, Ashutosh, Anubhav, and Ashish owe thanks for their commendable support in coordinating the workshop. This workshop on FPGAs served as an excellent platform for students to bridge the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical applications in the field of embedded systems. The department looks forward to hosting more such industry-oriented programs in the future. Dr. Anil Bhardwaj, HoD ECE, is thankful to Honorable Vice Chancellor who is very supportive in this event, without whom it is not possible to organize this enriching event. Head School of ECE is also thankful to Registrar, Shri Ajay Kumar Sharma (KAS) and all the administrative staff.

April Downpour Devastate Kashmir's Strawberry Crop at Critical Flowering Stage

The persistent inclement weather during the month of April has caused huge damage to the strawberries, particularly during the crucial flowering stage. The heavy downpours, far from nurturing the delicate blossoms, have instead inundated fields, resulting in substantial losses for farmers who were eagerly anticipating a fruitful harvest this season.

The flowering stage is a critical phase in the growth cycle of strawberries, as it determines the yield and quality of the crop. However, the heavy rains that lashed the region during April proved to be disastrous for farmers, as the incessant downpours caused widespread damage to the delicate blossoms.

"We were expecting a good yield this season. However, the heavy rains during April, when the strawberry crop was at its flowering stage, led to the failure of the crop at its initial stage. The rains and cold weather halt pollination following which the flowers wither," said Mohammad Yaseen, a strawberry farmer from Zakoora.

He said the weather during May will play a crucial role for the strawberry crop. "The flowering of strawberries continues and if it rains or the temperature goes abnormally up, then we may face huge losses. We are still hopeful for a favourable weather ahead," Yaseen said. Strawberries, one of the first cash crops of the horticulture sector of Jammu and Kashmir, are grown in Dara, and Gusoo areas on the outskirts of Srinagar besides other neighboring districts. Given the huge profit margin, many farmers over the years have shifted from vegetable farming to strawberries in Kashmir. Gaasu village alone produces almost one thousand trays equal to 2000 kg daily.
